Journal Introduction

The Herodote Journal for Humanities and Social Sciences is a peer-reviewed, quarterly publication overseen by a national and international scientific committee composed of prominent scholars from Algeria and the Arab world. Published both electronically and in print by the Herodote Foundation for Scientific Research and Training, the journal specializes in the fields of social and human sciences and accepts contributions in Arabic, English, and French. Its primary mission is to promote scientific research by publishing rigorous and purposeful studies that showcase researchers' contributions to the advancement of knowledge. In addition, the journal aims to foster the involvement of national and Arab scientific communities in research and academic publishing, while encouraging constructive dialogue and collaboration among diverse scientific elites. As a free and open-access publication, the Herodote Journal is readily accessible to students, scholars, and researchers, further supporting the dissemination and development of scientific knowledge.

Editorial

Since its establishment in 2017, the Herodote Journal has been diligently working to promote scientific research. It continues its academic endeavors in collaboration with a distinguished group of researchers and professors in Algeria and the Arab world. The journal strives to provide free scientific support for publication through its pages, ensuring it remains an effective academic platform within the system of research and scientific publishing.

With the release of its first special issue in English, the journal reaffirms its commitment to continuity and persistent effort. Through its website, it expresses full support for all rigorous scientific studies that advance research in the humanities and social sciences.

The academic effort we dedicate to supporting scientific research aligns with our responsibility to honor the legacy of our martyrs and uphold it through continuous work, diligence, and distinguished scientific research.
