1.Journal of letters and languages is a biannual (issued every 6 months), peer-reviewed, and open access journal; that receives submissions of articles in Arabic, French or English language.

2. Articles submitted for publication should include the following:

• The article should be original and new. It might neither be published in other journals, nor be introduced or presented in a symposium or a scientific meeting. It should not be part of an academic research work (Master or PhD) as well.

• The researcher must adhere to the scientific methodology, which is acknowledged in the writing of research and scientific works. It should adopt scientific objectivity when raising the problem of research and its components, and adopts scientific criticism in the presentation of issues, ideas and their discussion.

• Authors should adopt a standardized methodology for arranging search and compliance elements complying with the journal's template.

• The article should not be less than 6000 words and not more than 10,000 words, including references, margins, tables and illustrations, and pages should be numbered sequentially.

• The author should write his/her paper's summary in the three languages (Arabic, French, English), this includes a fleeting recapitulation of the subject of research, the research problem, the purpose, methodology and results of the study.

• The margins should be as follows: right 2 cm, left 2 cm, paper head 1.5 cm, bottom of sheet 2 cm, and page size cm 16 X cm 24.

• The Arabic scientific text should be written in a Simplified Arabic font, measured 14 by 20 points between the lines, the main title is Simplified Arabic15 Gras, while French or English is presented in Times New Roman font, measured 12.

• The journal reserves the right not to publish two articles for the same author in the same issue or in consecutive issues of the same year.

• The paper should include an:

- Introduction: not less than 500 words, including the definition of the subject of research and identify the problem, the definition of goals and previous studies, methodology and elements.

- The research should be divided into elements arranged in a logical methodical order, indicated by the headings and sub-titles.
- Conclusion: not less than 300 words, in which the researcher lists the findings, answers to the research questions, and recommendations that foresee the prospects of his research.

• When writing the article:

- The article should be free of spelling, grammatical and linguistic mistakes.
- Compliance with the rules of writing control through:
- Respect of the starting distance of paragraphs and very long sentences.
- Do not leave a space before the individual punctuation marks (.), Comma (,), semicolon (;), colon (:), exclamation mark (!), question mark (?), and leave a space after it if followed by a word or text.
- The scientific term and the names of flags in Arabic should be mentioned once in the research and beside it then the term is in English or French when it is first delivered. It is sufficient to write it in Arabic.
- Be aware of the works included: Quranic verses, poetic texts, names of flags, tuning in the form and graduation of Hadiths and poetry verses.
- The margins and assignments in the last dumps should be placed in the automatic insertion method, with a bibliographic list inserted in alphabetical order.

3. After confirming the article's compliance with the publishing rules, this latter should be:

a. Sent to two specialized experts.

B. In the case of conflict of interest, the article is referred to a third expert.

T. When accepting the publication of the article, the author must sign the publishing contract.

W. If the article is not accepted, the author shall be notified of the decision of the editorial board.

4. The certificate of acceptance of publication shall not be submitted without the approval of the final editorial board to publish the article.

Greetings to our esteemed readers,

We are pleased to present the first issue of the twelve volume of the Journal of Arts and Languages, published by the Faculty of Arts and Languages at Mohamed El Bachir El Ibrahimi University, Bordj Bou Arreridj, Algeria. This issue, dated April 2026, features a collection of articles and research papers exploring the intersections between literature and entrepreneurship, as well as the relationships between literature, theater, and philosophy.

These studies are deeply rooted in contemporary developments within literary theory, criticism, and linguistics, reflecting the influence of emerging trends in related fields and higher education. We hope that readers will find innovative insights that broaden their research horizons and enrich their intellectual, literary, and critical knowledge.

The Editorial Board trusts that these contributions will address key inquiries within their respective fields, enhance specialized scientific research, and pave the way for future scholarly endeavors. Furthermore, we remain committed to publishing forthcoming research submitted via our platform—despite its current selectivity—following the completion of our rigorous peer-review and revision process.

Finally, we kindly remind contributors to adhere to the journal's published submission guidelines to ensure acceptance. We encourage researchers to continue submitting their work for future issues, provided it aligns with the journal's specialized scope.

We would also like to inform our esteemed readers that all previous issues of the journal are available on the platform via the following link:

Our sincere thanks go to all the experts, researchers, and editorial members whose efforts brought this issue to light.

Until we meet again in our upcoming issue, by God's will.

The Editorial Board.
